Mr. Allen is not engaged in any investment-related business or occupation outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 5

Additional Compensation

Mr. Allen does not receive additional compensation for advisory services outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 6

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Mr. Allen is supervised by Robert J. Francais, Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Francais can be reached at 310.806.4020.

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

Law License – Illinois (active) and Florida (inactive)

Issued by: Individual state bar association or other state licensing authority.

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Generally, a candidate must earn a Juris Doctor from an approved law school.

Educational Requirements: While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as an attorney generally include:

- Earning a Juris Doctor from an approved law school;
- Passing the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination (MPRE), not required in Maryland, Puerto Rico, and Wisconsin;
- Passing a state bar examination; and
- Being certified as having the good moral character and fitness to practice law.

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: States generally require the completion of continuing legal education (CLE) hours each year. As each state administers its own licensing, the required number of hours of CLE varies by state.

- Three years of full-time personal financial planning experience

Educational Requirements: Candidate must complete a CFP Board-Registered Program, or hold one of the following:

- CPA
- ChFC®
- Chartered Life Underwriter® (CLU®)
- CFA®
- Ph.D. in business or economics
- Doctor of Business Administration
- Attorney's License

Examination Type: CFP Certification Examination

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: Thirty hours every two years

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

ITEM 3Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of each supervised person providing investment advice. No information is applicable to this Item.

ITEM 4Other Business Activities

Ms. Bragar is not engaged in any investment-related business or occupation outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 5Additional Compensation

Ms. Bragar does not receive additional compensation for advisory services outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 6Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Ms. Bragar is supervised by Thomas G. Tracy, Chief Client & Planning Officer. Mr. Tracy can be reached at 415.371.7800.

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Ms. Conners is supervised by Mark D. Petrie, Client Service Team Leader. Mr. Petrie can be reached at 858.519.1890.

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Ms. Fox is supervised by Brett A. Gookin, Client Service Team Leader. Mr. Gookin can be reached at 415.371.7800.

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

ITEM 3

Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of each supervised person providing investment advice. No information is applicable to this Item.

ITEM 4

Other Business Activities

Mr. Hamilton is not engaged in any investment-related business or occupation outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 5

Additional Compensation

Mr. Hamilton does not receive additional compensation for advisory services outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 6

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Mr. Hamilton is supervised by Brett A. Gookin, Client Service Team Leader. Mr. Gookin can be reached at 415.371.7800.

CPA – Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Although not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Mr. Kiss is supervised by Brett A. Gookin, Client Service Team Leader. Mr. Gookin can be reached at 415.371.7800.

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

ITEM 3

Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of each supervised person providing investment advice. No information is applicable to this Item.

ITEM 4

Other Business Activities

Ms. Michelini is not engaged in any investment-related business or occupation outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 5

Additional Compensation

Ms. Michelini does not receive additional compensation for advisory services outside of Aspiriant.

ITEM 6

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Ms. Michelini is supervised by Samantha Song Park, Client Service Team Leader. Ms. Park can be reached at 310.806.4000.

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you. Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Mr. Paddock is supervised by Talia Pierluissi, Director - Wealth Management. Talia can be reached at 650.305.3481.

- One week classroom education program provided by an AACSB accredited university business school

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: Forty hours every two years

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Although not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects
- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

ITEM 6

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department. In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

- May 2002 to October 2010
Senior Manager, Deloitte Investment Advisors LLC

CPA - Certified Public Accountant

Issued by: Individual state board

Prerequisites/Experience Required: Candidate must meet the following requirements:

- Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree to be eligible to become a CPA.
- Currently, over 40 states have adopted a 150 hour semester education requirement for aspiring CPAs.

Educational Requirements: Not all states have the same criteria for becoming a CPA. However, most states will recognize your license with the following requirements:

- A bachelor's degree
- Twenty-four semester units in accounting-related subjects
- Twenty-four semester units in business-related subjects

- One hundred fifty semester units (or 225 quarter units) of education
- Passing an ethics course
- One year of general accounting experience supervised by a CPA with an active license
- Examination Type: Uniform CPA Exam

Continuing Education/Experience Requirements: While the CPA exam and related education requirement is uniform across the country, each state administers its own licensing. Not all states have the same criteria for continuing education and experience. Some states require no qualified work experience in order to become licensed, and others require at least two years covering specific accounting and auditing topic areas. The following is a basic outline of what many states require. In most states, licenses expire on December 31 of each odd-numbered year; some states use other cycles for renewal. After the first renewal period, the continuing education requirement is generally 80 hours every two years, although some states may require more or less, and a minimum of 20 hours must be earned in each year. Sixteen of the 80 hours must be obtained in auditing and accounting subjects. We are happy to provide specific information as to the state certification for a particular advisor upon request. This information is also available from your state Department of Consumer Affairs, Board of Accountancy, or similar governmental organization.

ITEM 6

Supervision

Our supervision mechanism is a firm-wide, control-based process. Supervision is designed with a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level, at the client service team level, and finally ongoing reporting and meetings with you.

Oversight at the firm level is provided by a series of committees. The committees each have a directed function and include a cross section of personnel from different departments. We create and maintain committees that provide ongoing oversight for a specific function; management, financial planning advice, investment products and portfolio design, client service, and business development among others.

The actual advice provided to you is monitored in several ways. The monitoring begins with internal controls we have in place regarding recommended investments. As a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted by our research department.

Our trading systems and procedures also provide supervisory controls. The asset allocation outlined in your investment policy statement is entered into our trade order management system. This enables electronic comparison of your target allocation to your actual holdings. Trades are generated within this system based on that information, and only trades consisting of securities approved for purchasing are permitted. These trades also require two levels of approval before being executed. In order to provide further post-trading controls, a daily transaction ledger is distributed not only to our client service teams but also to the compliance department.

In addition to these firm-wide controls on the investments recommended to you, direct supervision is provided by individual team leaders in each office, as well as by the particular relationship manager on your client service team. This supervision includes reviewing the analysis of the team members, participating in meetings with you, and reviewing recommendations. Since we generally provide services to you as a team, a member of the team provides a level of supervision over the other. In making the specific recommendations to you, your Investment Advisor Representative will focus on educating you in order to assist you in making your investment decisions, specifically concluding on an asset allocation. The reports, presentations and meeting materials provided to you, throughout your engagement with Aspiriant, are reviewed by a team of individuals that may include analysts, compliance, associates and principals working together to ensure accurate and comprehensive information is available to you regarding your investment portfolio.

Mr. Weissman is supervised by Paul J. Nikolai II, Client Service Team Leader. Mr. Nikolai can be reached at 513.824.3110.
